

Everything Can Wait

Written by Amanda Walther

Everything can wait
Just a little bit
It takes a whole day for the sun to set
And the most beautiful colours are at the end
Everything can wait, just a little bit

It takes time
To get it right
It took a billion years before there was life
And three billion more before birds took flight
It takes time to get it right

Everything can wait
I hope I can
Watch my only son grow into a man
And then find someone who understands
Everything can wait, I hope I can

I will find my peace in these Maple trees
As they grow their leaves and let them fall
And turn again
It never ends

Everything can wait
Just a little bit
It takes a whole day for the sun to set
And the most beautiful colours are at the end
Everything can wait, just a little bit
I can wait
